

About the Contributors

Aileen BAVIERA is Professor at the Asian Center, University of the Philippines Diliman. The editor in chief of Asian Politics & Policy, Dr. Baviera specializes on contemporary China, ASEAN-China relations, regional integration, Asia-Pacific security, and territorial and maritime disputes. Professor Baviera has a Ph.D. in Political Science from the University of the Philippines Diliman.

Tina CLEMENTE is Associate Professor at the Asian Center, University of the Philippines Diliman. She teaches graduate-level courses and specializes on China Studies, Philippines-China relations, development studies, and economic history. Dr. Clemente has a Ph.D. in Economics from the University of the Philippines Diliman.

Marina DURANO is Assistant Professor at the Asian Center, University of the Philippines Diliman. She has a Ph.D. in Economics from the University of Manchester specializes on development economics, feminist economics, Philippine economic history, and trade and industrialization.

Ivy Marie GANADILLO is a graduate student of the Asian Center, University of the Philippines Diliman, where she is also University Research Associate. Her research interests include Chinese culture, New Chinese migrants, Philippines-China relations, and Hong Kong-Mainland China relations.

Marian GONGORA is the author of “The Identification and Distancing of Filipino Korean Language Students in Watching Korean Telenovelas” which was published in East Asian Popular Culture: Philippine Perspectives. She finished her Masters of Asian Studies (major in Korea Studies) at the Asian Center, University of the Philippines Diliman. She worked for the Embassy of the Republic of Korea in the Philippines from 2007 to 2011 and spent time in Seoul National University as an exchange student in 2006. She has been working with the Asian Center on a number of projects, and her research interests include women, popular culture, human security, and migration.

Marco LAGMAN obtained his Master's in Geography and Environmental Planning from Towson University in Baltimore, Maryland. An Assistant Professor at the University of the Philippines' Department of Geography, he teaches undergraduate courses in urban geography and land use, and specializes on the nature of informal settlements, and the historicogeographical aspects of gambling crimes, businesses and land use in the Philippines during the nineteenth century.

Janus Isaac NOLASCO is University Researcher at the Asian Center, University of the Philippines Diliman, where he finished his MA in Asian Studies specializing on Islamic and Middle Eastern history and society. He has written reviews and essays for The Manila Review, Forging a New Philippine Foreign Policy, The Kyoto Review of Southeast Asia, and TRaNS: Trans-Regional and -National Studies of Southeast Asia.

Joeje SANTARITA completed his Ph.D. in South Asian Studies at the National University of Singapore with a dissertation on Philippines-India relations. An Associate Professor at the Asian Center, Dr. Santarita also conducts research on migration, Philippine culture and society, maritime history, and Southeast Asian political economy.

Henelito SEVILLA, Jr. is the coordinator of the West Asian Studies graduate program of the Asian Center, University of the Philippines Diliman. A fluent Farsi speaker, he finished his Ph.D. in International Relations at the University of Tehran and is at present Assistant Professor at the Asian Center, where he teaches courses on the relations between the Philippines and Middle Eastern countries, the political economy of the Middle East, and energy security in Asia.

Rolando TALAMPAS is Associate Professor at the Asian Center, University of the Philippines Diliman, where he teaches graduate-level courses on Philippine and Southeast Asian Studies. He chaired the organizing committee of the International Conference on Disasters in Asia held in Bohol, Philippines in January 2015, and took part in 2014 in conferences in Denmark and Switzerland, where he presented papers on Bohol seafarers and the Sama-Bajau.

Michiyo YONENO-REYES is Associate Professor at the Asian Center, University of the Philippines Diliman. In 2014, she codirected two films on Kalinga music, society, and culture, “Sounds of Victory: A Kalinga Wedding in the Northern Philippines” and “Music in the Life of Balbalansang Village.” An ethnomusicologist by training, Dr. Yoneno-Reyes has a Ph.D. in Philippine Studies from the University of the Philippines in Diliman.

List of Reviewers

Patricio ABINALES | Melvin JABAR | Jozon LORENZANA |
Ikuya TOKORO | Chee-Kiong TONG | Michael TSAIO